I Love You, But Jessica LeeAnn

Jeremy just learned that his band, Majestic, has a contract for six months to play at a very popular lounge. He's excited about the gig but not the location. He knows this is going to be a major problem for his girlfriend, Amber. She doesn't like when he travels, especially with his band and without her. Jeremy knows it's going to be an issue for Amber, so he has to figure out how he's going to tell her that he's leaving to China in two weeks. Or should he? Kim loves her hubby Lamar but she isn't feeling the fact that he spoils his younger sister, Lena. When Lamar invites Lena and her three kids to move in, without talking to Kim first, things got real. Jealousy, resentment, and no communication can be detrimental to a marriage. Kim is about to see just how bad things can get between a woman and her husband when things go left. Is Kim as equipped for marriage as she thought she was? She's sure about to find out. Travis is feeling everything about his new boo, Riley. He's putting a ring on it, he knows that for sure. However, he started having doubts when he finds out just how cool Riley is with her ex-boyfriend, Bellamy. Travis has no reason to be insecure. He's handsome, intelligent, successful and God-fearing. What woman wouldn't want a man like that? Travis knows he's good for Riley but the fact that Bellamy knows her better makes him feel inferior to Bellamy. His short-temper doesn't help either. Will Travis allow his insecurities to lose out on the love of his life? Or will his short-temper push Riley in the arms of her ex-boyfriend Bellamy? Three relationships. Three problems. But there is one solution: love. Will these three couples find the solution that could possible save their relationships? Will these relationships be saved once these couples learn that love bears all things? Or will Jeremy, Kim & Travis find a way to miss out on love forever? I love you, but... Is that really enough?
